

Annotating

- Underline confusing words and phrases
- Circle powerful words and phrases
- Use a question mark (?) for questions you have during the reading. Make sure to write your question in the margins!
- Use an exclamation mark (!) for things that surprise you, and briefly note what it was that caught your attention.
- Draw an arrow (→) when you make a connection to something inside the text or to an idea or experience outside the text.
- Draw a star (☆) when you think something is important, and you want to remember it later.

Annotating

- Underline confusing words and phrases
- Circle powerful words and phrases
- Use a question mark (?) for questions you have during the reading. Make sure to write your question in the margins!
- Use an exclamation mark (!) for things that surprise you, and briefly note what it was that caught your attention.
- Draw an arrow (→) when you make a connection to something inside the text or to an idea or experience outside the text.
- Draw a star (☆) when you think something is important, and you want to remember it later.